has been reporting ambulance offload delay data for the last eight years as a resource for hospitals to seek out opportunities for improvement.

Bruce Barton noted that Arrowhead Regional Medical Center and Riverside County Regional Medical Center both receive high numbers of ambulance patients and have low offload delays hours. REMSA does not know how many non-ambulance transport patients are seen at the hospital emergency departments.

Bruce Barton, Tom Lynch and Dimitrios Alexiou are participating in a regional taskforce in order to collaborate on best practices to improve offload delays. It was asked when a timeline would be given on incorporating best practices established by this group. Bruce Barton said a timeline would be forthcoming.

Bruce Barton gave a brief description on how ambulance offload delays are dealt with operationally.
